The JOURNAL exists to provide practical scientific information of interest to the membership of the Louisiana State Medical Society. It strives to help meet the need of each physician to maintain a general awareness of progress and change in clinical medicine and is designed to aid the practicing physician in providing comprehensive care and in recognizing the needs for specialized treatment.

The JOURNAL recognizes these physicians who have assisted in achieving these goals by reviewing manuscripts submitted for publication and published in 1988. Others have reviewed manuscripts that have not yet been published; their names will be listed following publication of the articles.
